Southern cities like Hyderabad, Chennai, etc. are prominent additions to the list of most developed corporate sectors, you should start learning under the guidance of an experienced and efficient teacher. Classroom Activities are highly helpful in improving the language skills of individuals who are willing to learn. You can also be a part of the best learning process by asking your teacher to inculcate these activities in classes. Word Antakshari All of us in India have played Antakshari, especially in family get-togethers and school life. The same technique applies here with a little twist in the tale. Here, your teacher or classmate will say a word, and you will have to pick the last letter of that word to make a new meaningful one. This process will continue until everyone in the game falls short of words. Word Antakshari is highly useful and effective in improving English vocabulary. Random Sentence Construction Speaking English can become when you start thinking a lot about its grammatical correctness that its quality. In this activity, your teacher will throw random words to you, and you have to construct sentences immediately without taking a lot of time to think. You will gain a lot of confidence with this activity by also contributing to your learning method. In this one, you and your teacher can act as friends, shopkeepers and customers, flight attendants and passengers, etc. Speak the responses confidently to learn different ways of communicating in general. Card Games Card games are fun and effective and can be played in various ways. All your teacher has to do is make cards with instructions, words, or sentences in it. You will pick the card one by one and do as instructed on that card. This one adds a little twist to the general learning activity, used majorly for students who are preparing for their interviews. Most of the corporate sectors use GD rounds to shortlist candidates for the final interview round. Therefore, using this activity will also enhance your employability. Extempore Speaking in front of a crowd requires confidence and to build that courage, extempore rounds are very helpful. In this one, you will have to speak on topics that your teacher will give without taking any time to think. While it may be easier to learn and retain a second language at a younger age, those who are interested in learning a second language later on in life should not be discouraged. In fact, the older a person gets, the more apparent the need for the English language becomes. Studying in an international university, or in an English speaking country is a challenging, but very rewarding, goal for many young Thais nowadays. The USA and the UK are still the most popular study destinations, but Thai students can also be found in Australia, Canada, New Zealand and several European countries. English-language proficiency is one of the major obstacles for students who want to study abroad. Obtaining a job in an English speaking country, or having to frequently interact with English speaking colleagues in Thailand or overseas. With trading between countries at a high, people are expected to speak more than one language in order to ensure the completion of a transaction. This means that English as a second language is becoming more common and expected in the business community. Anyone moving to a country that is predominantly English speaking will need to master the English language it may be very frustrating to complete simple tasks and interact with others.
